Dear Parents,

Some of the highlights for this month are Celebrating Dr Seuss's Birthday and St. Patrick's Day. Dr Seuss was one of the greatest authors of all time especially for children. His books are entertaining, educational and very enjoyable. He introduces the children to rhyming, has wonderful unique illustrations and always has a moral to discuss in the story. We have a week of 'wacky' activities planned to mark his Birthday. March is National Nutrition Month and we will incorporate activities to highlight the importance of healthy eating.

We are also planning to become horticulturists and cultivate our class garden. This is an opportunity for the children to connect with nature, take care of living things with hands on interactive work and discovery. Gardening benefits young children in most areas of development including

Math - counting, sorting, classification and measurement.

Science - life cycles, observations, insects and worms etc

Physical - digging and planting which promotes hand-eye coordination and the pincer grasp, some prewriting skills.

Language - new vocabulary, letter recognition and reading labels and instructions.

Social/Emotional - responsibility, consequences, curiosity and patience!

The children will work as a team, doing something real, working through a process - beginning, middle and end while enjoying both the process and product.

Many Thanks - Ms. Karen, Ms. Jen, Ms. Becca and Ms. Jordan
